

Ruth Taber: Fancy Food Show in DC rolls out treasures galore

by Ruth Taber \ Special to the Times
Posted: 08/10/2011 12:00:00 AM MDT

Booze infused, "do-it-yourself," Japanese, popped, cherry and kosher -- all are food products highlighted at the Fancy Food Show, which took place in Washington, D.C., recently.

The three-day event attracted 2,400 exhibitors from 80 countries and showcased more than 180,000 specialty foods and beverages.

These great anytime snacks -- eat them plain or crumbled on ice cream/yogurt -- are just mmm good! I love the portion control packaging (three cookies in a packet equals 100 calories). Trumps labels the ultra-thin goodies dessert crackers and Amazon is taking orders for delivery in the next two months (amazon.com).

